Former comedian Lewis Grizzard wrote:

My late father was one of the handful of Americans who could sing “The Star Spangled Banner” without bruising the ears of those around him.

A long time ago, I went to a baseball game with him when they played the national anthem.

He stood, placed his hand over his heart, and sang a spirited rendition that rose above the relative quiet of the rest of the crowd.

When we sat down, I said “Daddy, it embarrasses me when you sing the national anthem that loud.”

“Son,” he replied, “it embarrasses me when you don’t.”

THANK YOU

Dear Church Members,
Thank you very much for the package of snacks that was sent during exam time. It came in very handy and I enjoyed it very much. Its timing was just right for studying for exams and it seems like the snacks get better every time. I'm very thankful for your thoughts and fellowship.
Sincerely,
Jared Smith (grandson of Norma and Joe Norwood)

FROM THE WALLS.....

We had a new experience Sunday morning – children’s sermon without children! I thought maybe the choir would go sit on the steps but they disappointed me. They really get into these children’s sermons!

I don’t know where all the children were – camp, maybe? Or vacation? I sure missed their cheery little voices. And, the choir doesn’t do “Stump Rev. Russ” quite as well.

Well, it sounds like Mr. B. R., Miss Carolyn, & Rev. Russ were inspired by the meeting they attended last week. I couldn’t understand it all – something about wine and skins, but there was good preaching and good singing according to what I heard Wednesday night. It was good to see such a large crowd attending to hear about the proposed structure of networks. There were lots of questions, too. Rev. Russ may have to do another program.

Little Paden Keith was the hit of the show Wednesday night, though. Does Aunt Lisa pinch him so he will wake up and she can hold him? He’ll have all our attention Sunday morning when he is baptized.

What do you think about going “patriotic” Sunday and wearing red, white and blue? If you look closely up in the rafters, you’ll see that my family will be decked out in the country’s colors.

Don’t forget, the folks from Redeemer will be coming to worship with us Sunday morning. Hope we have a good turn out.

I don’t know if they have a church mouse at Redeemer because I wasn’t able to go when our folks went over there, but if they do I hope their mouse family comes, too.

I like the name Miss Jean H. calls herself – Ninja Turtle.—because of her back brace. It’s great to see her out and doing so well.

Isn’t it neat that Rev. Russ met the preacher from the church where our young people stay when they go on their mission trip! They’ll be going soon, too, and will be taking donations of coloring books, crayons, etc. to the children in Mexico.
