God is not unjust; he will not forget your work and the love you have shown him as you have helped his people and continue to help them. Hebrews 6:10

We Need Your Help... We are needing individuals to call in case Judy Fette needs a ride to her radiation treatments. Please call the church office at 903-838-4594 if you would be able to help out. We will put your name on a list and call as needed. Her appointments are between 3-4:30 PM. Thank You!

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Vacation Bible School will be held June 12th-16th. If you can teach or help in any way please let Leslie Western or Norma Norwood know.

Well Spring Break seemed short lived to me but I guess all good things certainly must come to an end at some point to quote the cliché. I trust everyone is enjoying their "early" spring although it stills a bit like winter to me. Not much on the calendar this month, but the youth are continuing to go through the Chronicles of Narnia Bible study on Wednesday nights at 7pm, so keep inviting friends and others in general.

TEN PRINCIPLES FOR YOUR SECOND HALF OF LIFE.

#4 Make your life your endgame. The goal, Peter said, is not just long life or even a prosperous one; it's to make a meaningful life out of an ordinary one. At some point everybody wonders, "What's it all about anyway?" Life is often perplexing, and merely chasing "the dream" may not be enough. The question most halftimers ask themselves is, "What do I do now?" The answer is to set your sights on achievements that really matter, that will make a difference in the world. And set them far enough ahead of where you are today that the journey will be demanding but worth the effort. As Peter put it, "Make your life your endgame."

#5. Planning doesn't work. Peter said planning doesn't work. You can prepare yourself, learn what you ought to know, and expand your experience and professionalism, but ultimately, he said, "opportunity comes in over the transom," and that means you have to be flexible, ready to seize the right opportunities when they come. Too much planning," he said, "can make you deaf to opportunity." Knowing what you want to do and being prepared and equipped to do it is more important than the specific "how." Peter said, "Opportunity knocks, but it only knocks once. You have to be ready for the accident." Early in his career Peter Drucker turned down top jobs at Goldman Sachs, Stanford Business School, and Emory University in Atlanta, not because they weren't good jobs but because he knew they weren't the right jobs for him. "One has to learn what to say no to," he told me, "and what to say yes to. One doesn't say, No because I didn't plan for it; but No because it's not the right opportunity."

#6. You have to know your values. What questions should you be asking about yourself and your life? Peter said, "If you don't respect a job, not only will you do a poor job of it but it will corrupt you, and eventually it may even kill you." If you are a person of faith, you assume a certain value system. But there's a value system for your work, as well. By way of example, Peter said, "Ninety-nine percent of all physicians should not become hospital administrators., because they have no respect for the job." Knowing what you value and what you don't can keep you from making some bad choices along the way. (As always, there's more to come!)

Dear Trinity Family

Thank you for your prayers, love and support during the illness and loss of our brother, "Pete" Turner. We so appreciate those who sent cards, called, and especially Russell, who brought a beautiful, uplifting message.

The lovely rose bush (and it already has buds on it) will be a constant reminder of Trinity's love for us in Pete's memory. We are truly grateful to have a church family as caring and loving as all of you.

May God continue to bless you,
 Sincerely,
 Bugs and Margaret

FROM THE WALLS.....

Dear me, I was remiss in not mentioning Miss Becky and Mr. Rusty's duet last week. I was in a hurry and just recycled the letter that didn't make it to the Trumpet the week before. Anyway, they did a great job as did the choir. I like having them right under my perch when they are singing.

Faith and Begorra, when Mr. Kevin Lusk sang those Irish tunes Wednesday night, I was so delighted I found some green ribbon in a Sunday School room to tie around my little ones' necks -- and a wee bit for my own.

Mr. B. R. likes jokes and he was telling a baaaad one the other night --
 "Do you know what's Irish and stays out all night?" ----
 Paddy-O-Furniture! Groan! Groan!

Miss Bobbie always does a great job with the children's sermon. She was talking about service to God and the church and there were two of the acolytes sitting right there. These children do perform a service for us -- and they are so serious and reverent when they slowly walk down the aisle to light the candles and to put them out. Lexie performed the duty for the first time Sunday and did a wonderful job. Heard some good things about Mr. B. R.'s sermon Sunday as well.

Rev. Russ and Miss Lisa are home from their trip. Hope they had a good time and escaped all the floods we had. My, it rained so much toads weren't the only things being strangled.

WOW students will be graduating next Wednesday night so come support these children. You'll be surprised at what they learn in their classes such as songs, Bible verses, stories, creeds, etc. And, be sure to help Claire with her service project by bringing personal supplies she will take to Randy Sams Center.
